NIXON: More ABMs, Less Inflation

'Nuclear Blackmail' Safeguard

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to ask Congress for a major expansion of the missile defense system to provide "virtually infallible" protection against the possibility of attack—or nuclear blackmail—by Red China a decade from now.

Nixon's announcement at a news conference Friday night rekindled rumblings of discontent from congressional opponents of the antiballistic missile—ABM—and expressions of support from those who successfully defended the program in bitter debate last summer.

The President said the United States must take steps now to handle a situation that may confront the nation in a decade.

"Ten years from now the Communist Chinese, for example, among others, may have a significant nuclear capability," he said. If relations with mainland China aren't improved, he said, "it will be very important for the United States to have some kind of defense so that nuclear blackmail could not be used against the United States or U.S. allies in Asia."

Responding to questions at his first news conference of the year, Nixon also:

—Issued a new warning to North Vietnam against attacks that would jeopardize U.S. forces in South Vietnam. If such attacks occur, he said, "we have the means and I will be prepared to use those means strongly to deal with that situation."

—Said he would decide within 30 days on Israel's request for more American arms to strengthen its security against its Arab enemies. Nixon indicated he would discuss with French President Georges Pompidou here next month the French sale of Mirage fighter planes to Libya. The U.S. has expressed concern.

—Refused to disclose details of U.S. involvement in Laos, which has been questioned in the Senate, but said "our activities there are solely for the purpose of seeing that the Laotian government... is not overwhelmed by the North Vietnamese and other Communist forces."

—Reported the U.S. has made considerable progress in getting the Nigerian government to accept relief supplies for its war-ravaged Biafran territory.

—Expressed confidence Federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell "will be approved by the Senate overwhelmingly" for service on the Supreme Court.

—Declared his new $200.8 billion budget fiscal year 1971, which will go to Congress Monday, "will be a major blow in stopping the inflation psychology."

and the government "will be able to control inflation without recession."

In disclosing his final decision on the ABM issue, Nixon said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird will make public the details of the program in about 30 days.

He described it as "absolutely essential as against any minor power, a power, for example, like Communist China." He added it would be "virtually infallible against that kind of potential attack, and, therefore, gives the United States a credible foreign policy in the Pacific area which it otherwise would not have."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a leading foe of ABM, said after Nixon's announcement he regretted the President had made the decision but he expects Congress to approve it.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and an ABM backer, said he also expects approval by Congress.

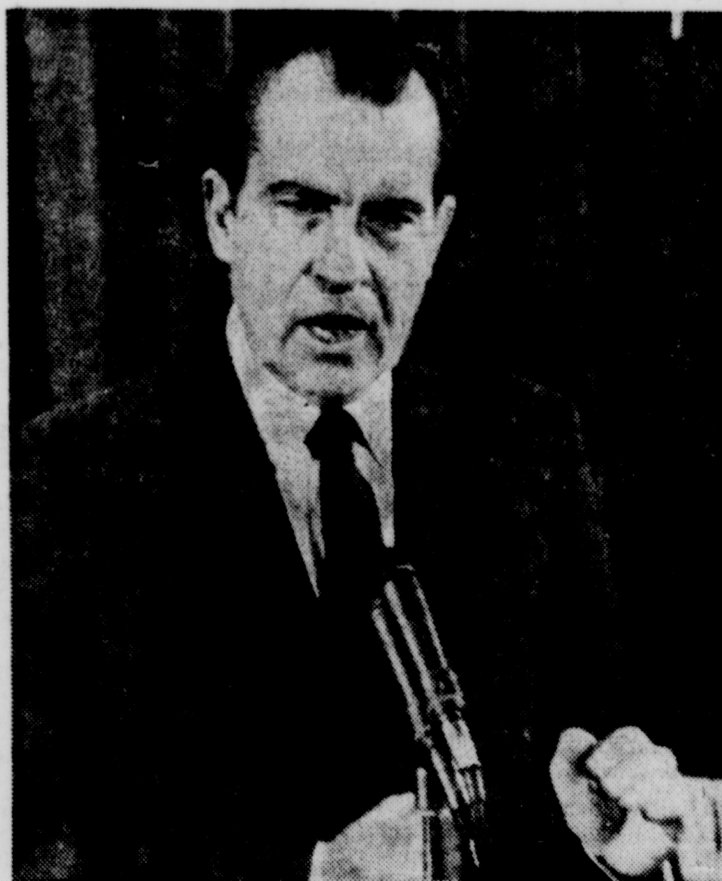

"There'll be very good reasons given for it and it will be sustained," Stennis said.

"This is the same system with the same vulnerable radar which 50 senators opposed last year," declared Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., a leader of the opposition when the ABM system squeaked through the Senate by one vote last year.

Replying to questions about Vietnam, Nixon said his program for turning combat over to South Vietnamese forces is "moving on schedule" and more troop withdrawal announcements will be made, although he did not say when.

His goal, he said, is still to get U.S. ground combat forces out of Vietnam by the end of this year, but he declined to speculate on whether the goal would be met. He said the policy of withdrawal is "irreversible" but the timing depends on various factors including enemy actions.

He expressed concern about the level of infiltration from North to South Vietnam, saying the number of troops moving south has gone up in January but is still not great enough to "sustain a prolonged offensive beyond that which we are able to contain."

STRESSING A POINT (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Economy Acceleration Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says the U.S. economy, throttled down to anti-inflation speed, should be ready to accelerate a bit by mid-1970.

Nixon held out this prospect Friday in a sober economic report, forecasting relatively slow economic growth in the next few months—with a chance of a rise in unemployment.

But he said continuing his policy of firm restraints on the budget and the money supply "holds out the best hope of keeping that risk low."

Just before release of the economic report to Congress, Nixon told a White House news conference his new budget will be "a major blow in stopping the inflationary psychology."

"We are now in a position, a critical position, in which the decisions made in the next month or two will determine whether we win this battle," Nixon said.

In his economic report, the President said "a moderately quicker pace later in the year would be consistent with continued progress in reducing the rate of inflation." Such a pace probably could be spurred by relaxing of money policies of the Federal Reserve under its Nixon-appointed chairman, Arthur F. Burns.

Nixon said in the economic message that the ever present risk of greater unemployment while anti-inflation policies predominate is a good reason for Congress quickly to approve his proposals for improved manpower training, broader unemployment compensation and family assistance.

In addition to the danger of substantial unemployment, Nixon said, other situations to be avoided are a resurgence of inflation and a money squeeze so tight that already ailing housing industry might be paralyzed.

A balanced budget, he said, is the key weapon against all these. His budget going to Congress Monday will call for spending $200.771 billion, allowing for a surplus of $1.331 billion in the fiscal year starting next July 1—a $1.5 billion surplus has been projected for the current budget year ending June 30.

Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers in their detailed report to Congress on the economy backed the President's policies. The voluntary wage and price guidelines tried under previous administrations haven't worked in this country or elsewhere, they contended.

Nixon, listing his administration's guiding economic principles, gave top ranking to maintenance of a sound dollar not weakened by further inflation. A continually expanding economy was next on the list.

He called for more consistent government economic policies, without pushing "first the accelerator and then the brake pedal to the floor."

Nixon estimated the kind of policies he advocates would permit a moderate 5.5 per cent increase in the gross national product—the measure of goods and services produced—to a total of about $985 billion.

The advisers said consumers are likely to boost spending $40 billion this year, but the government, economizing on defense, plans to cut its purchases $4.5 billion.

As inflation comes under control, they said, U.S. exports should move out faster—but there will be no quick return to the big export surpluses of the early 1960's.

Ranging broadly over the economy, the advisers' report mentioned as possibilities, though not necessarily recommendations:

—New farm policies emphasizing market conditions and moving away from high price supports on individual crops toward restrictions on total land use.

—Variable-interest mortgages that might encourage investors, now fearful of tying up money for long periods, to put more funds into the housing market.

—A tax on wastes discharged into the water or air, to pay for abatement costs and encourage industries to avoid pollution.

Basement Realty Will Tell All

By HUGH REYNOLDS KINGSTON

If anyone wants to know what Basement Realty of Kingston expects to do with the Goodyear property on North Front Street they'll be told at a public hearing at city hall on Feb. 9.

The public hearing, set for 7:30 p. m. will be held by the Common Council with Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Council president, presiding.

All the principals are expected to be in attendance. Basement Realty will be represented by its president, Charles Roach. The urban renewal agency will be represented by its executive director, James G. Connors, its attorney, George A. Beck and several members of the board. Also expected is a representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. The Council is expected to come out in full force including Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee. A delegation of uptown businessmen is also expected.

Basement Realty has been approved as "an eligible and qualified developer" (for the Goodyear property) by state, federal and local urban renewal officials. The Common Council at its Jan. 23 meeting, also approved Basement as an "eligible and qualified developer."

Connors told The Freeman that there has been some confusion about the Council's action on the 23rd. He explained that the Council did not approve Basement Realty as THE developer of the Goodyear property. The Council only concurred with the findings of the urban renewal agency that Basement was "qualified and eligible" to develop the property.

Hence, the public hearing where Basement will outline its plans for the property. Following review and agency approval of those plans the Council will again vote on the issue. If the Council at that time concurs with Basement's plans, Basement will then be the developer.

According to Roach, those plans will call for a 7,500 square foot Goodyear Service Center. Roach said he expects the building will be of colonial architecture bordered by a brick wall.

The estimated cost of the new building is placed at $135,000. The Basement company will build the service center and lease it to Goodyear. Plans call for a six-bay garage.

There has also been some question of zoning in the area. The urban renewal area is zoned "general commercial" which prohibits the erection of retail stores and banks.

The Goodyear store will do some retail trade, but according to Roach, that retail trade should amount to about 16 per cent of the total volume. The Goodyear company considers the sales of appliances, bicycles and other items as retail trade. The rest of the company's business is made up from the selling of tires (and mounting them on cars) and general automotive services.

Connors said a review of preliminary plans by agency consultants indicated that the Goodyear proposal conforms with urban renewal zoning. However, Connors said that when final plans are submitted they would be reviewed in respect to zoning conformity.

The Basement company has an option to purchase the land on which the Goodyear service center is now situated and has offered to pay the urban renewal agency $24,000 for it.

Previously, the Basement company had bought the Ballard property on North Front Street for approximately $40,000 and then sold a portion of it to the urban renewal agency for $20,300 for the widening of Converse Street.

Rail Shutdown Looms Throughout Country

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four spokesmen said shortly after pickets first appeared in three Midwest cities that all the carriers would shutdown operations.

Union Pacific pickets first appeared in North Platte and Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa, as members of four shop craft unions whose latest contract expired over a year ago walked off their jobs.

John P. Hiltz Jr., chief negotiator for the industry, said earlier today "They will be shut down today at a time to be determined and announced."

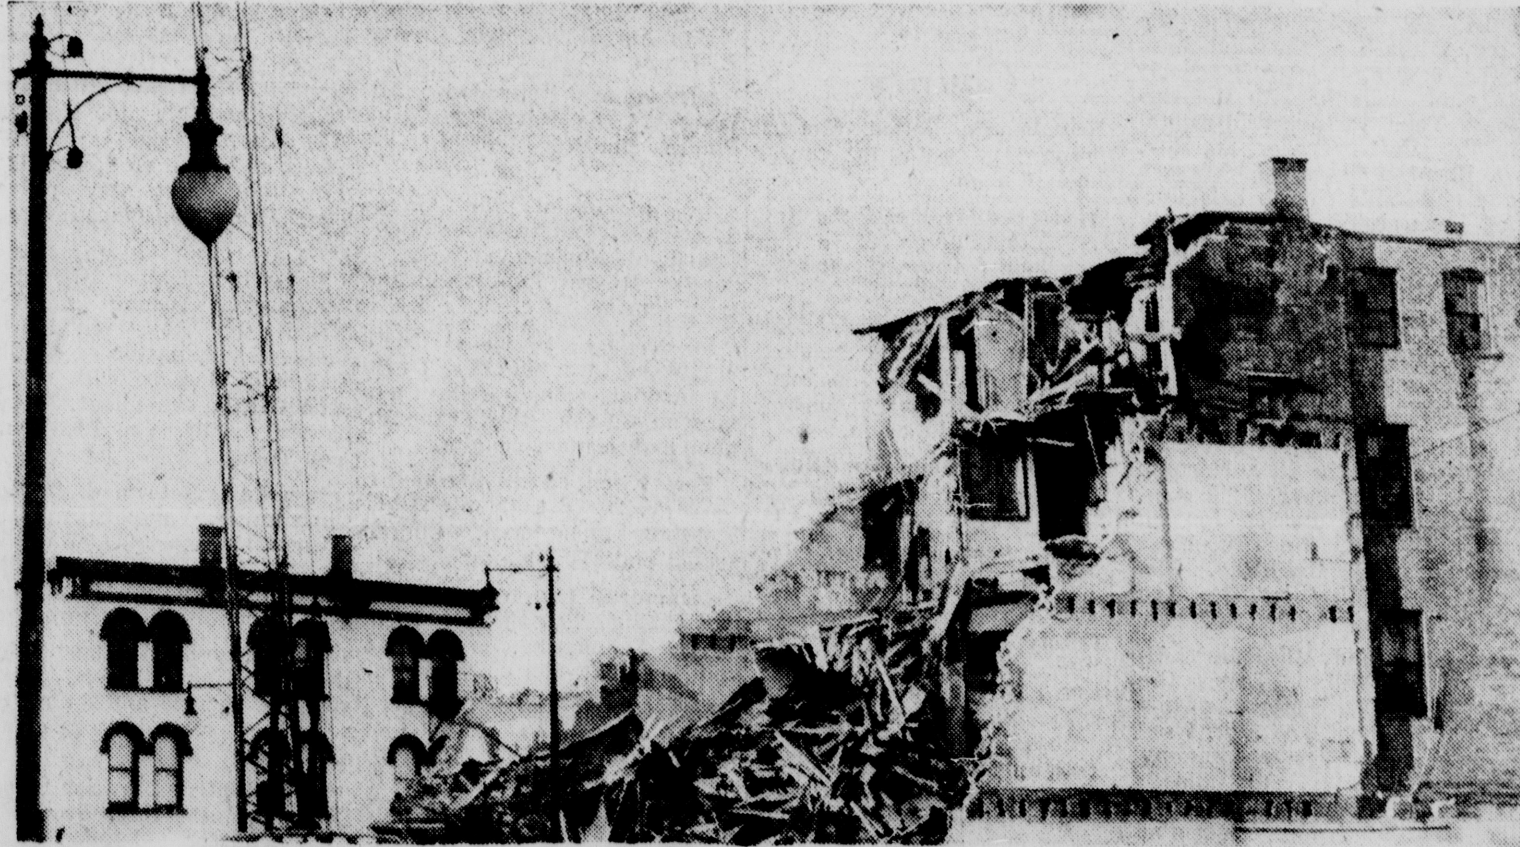

The Machinists, Boilermakers, Sheet Metal Workers and Electricians unions planned to strike only the Union Pacific, which operates over 9,500 miles of track in 13 western states.

Railroad officials here had said previously they will shut down the entire industry and lock out all union employees rather than allow the AFL-CIO unions to pursue the "whipsaw" strategy of, in the industry's words, "forcing inequitable settlements on one or a few carriers at a time and then extend the process to other victims."

The Labor Department, which had been working for a peaceful settlement since a 60-day cooling off period imposed by President Nixon ended last month, had no immediate comment on the Union Pacific strike. But a spokesman for Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said early this morning department officials would be meeting today to consider possible action to end the walkout.

As late as Friday the unions rejected a Shultz plan of a seven-day cooling off period while negotiations are continued. Some 48,000 members of the four unions were directly involved before Friday night's action broadened the scope of the dispute.

FAMILIAR SCENE—Demolition in the Broadway East urban renewal project has become a familiar scene during the past five years. Wrecking crews are shown leveling a building at 24 Broadway which once housed Stone's

More Red Troops Move Into Delta

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops have moved a fifth regiment into the Mekong Delta in a move that could bring a critical test this year of how well South Vietnamese troops can fight, informed Allied sources said today.

The 2,000-man North Vietnamese 95A Regiment has joined as many as 10,000 other North Vietnamese troops in the delta south of Saigon. The area grows most of South Vietnam's rice and has a third of the nation's people.

Some military sources said the troop shifts are a Communist effort to test the Allies' Vietnamization policy—the attempt to turn more and more of the fighting from American troops to South Vietnamese.

High-ranking Allied sources said today they expect more terrorist incidents in Saigon during the Tet lunar new year in the nature of the bombing Friday night of Saigon's biggest movie house.

Three Vietnamese were wounded in the blast which blew a hole in a wall between the movie theater and an American officers' quarters. No Americans were injured.

The U.S. Command said today the 240-man 303rd Army Transportation Co. will be deactivated Sunday as part of President Nixon's withdrawal of 50,000 more Americans from the war zone by April 15.

In a series of 16 Communist shellings Friday night and early today, guerrillas bombarded the headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

Two Deputies Are Assaulted

Medicaid Change For County to Begin June 1

KINGSTON—The new Medicaid directive which calls for patient cost sharing beginning in Ulster County Feb. 1, will not be put into effect until June 1, according to George K. Wyman, State Commissioner of Social Services.

Ulster County Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons received notification of the change in a telegram Thursday which states that the postponement was made in order to permit further time to implement the 20 per cent co-insurance requirements.

On Jan. 15 Fitzsimmons spoke out against the manner in which the new system was being administered by the state. He made his protest in Albany at a meeting of the New York Public Welfare Association.

He said at that time that while he does not condemn the validity of the principle of patient cost sharing, the plan is a confusing one "which can only result in reducing the availability and quality of medical care and services to those who need it most."

"What is your life?"

It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away"

Newspapers report daily of those who have departed this life. Some have a sudden illness, some have a heart attack and others die from accidents. Truly, life hangs by a thread. Each time we travel the highways we risk the chance that one slight mistake by a sleepy or drinking driver may terminate our lives in a grinding head-on crash. Add to this the recurrent world crises with the possibility of atomic warfare. If this occurs multiplied millions of people will suddenly be annihilated.

For anyone to face these facts and yet feel that "this couldn't happen to me," is sheer folly. The hazards of illness and sudden death are a very real part of everyday living. In view of this, thousands of people are extremely uneasy. While trying to ignore the frightening hazards of this age they engage in frantic activity and become engrossed in social and material affairs. They work hard at being "happy," but underneath it all they realize that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (Luke 12:15).

The wise person faces the facts. Instead of burdening himself with useless anxieties, he plans for the future; his future includes this life and death and the life to come. Only the faithful Christian can face the future with confidence. He has obeyed his Lord. His sins have been forgiven, and he is living the Christian life . . . with the assurance of life eternal.*

In meeting the problems of life, the Christian realizes that "it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps" (Jeremiah 10:23). He therefore avails himself of the rich resources of God's word to guide his steps. He is not unduly concerned with material values since he has learned of the true riches that are eternal (Matthew 6:19, 20). He is not promised freedom from illness or tragedy but he does have the promise that "all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28). Regardless of what may happen or when, he is prepared. His soul is safe in God's keeping and cannot be harmed by accidents, illness, or atomic blasts. Truly, he has "the peace which passeth all understanding" (Philippians 4:7).

Are you a Christian? Jesus said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28). Indeed, Christianity offers the solutions to all the problems of life.

"Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. What is your life? For ye are a vapor that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away" (James 4:14).

Are you a Christian?

* He believes in Jesus as the Son of God (John 3:16).

He repented of his sins (Acts 2:38).

He confessed Christ's name before men (Romans 10:9, 10).

He was immersed for the remission of sins (Acts 22:16; Romans 6:3, 4).

He is living a faithful Christian life (Revelation 2:10).

Saugerties Task Force Will Meet on Monday

The first meeting of the Community Task Force for Equal Educational Opportunity will be held in the Main Street School cafeteria on Monday at 7:30 p. m. Twenty-two citizens have indicated their willingness to serve.

The Task Force was instituted by action of the Board of Education at its December meeting upon recommendation of Superintendent Dr. Dexter O. Arnold. The purpose of the group is to identify any possible barriers to equal educational opportunity which may exist in the Saugerties Central School District.

If barriers are found the Task Force will study alternatives for their removal and make recommendations. Although the Board has been committed to the principal of equal educational opportunity for many years and of Superintendent Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, the purpose of the group is to identify any possible barriers to equal educational opportunity which may exist in the Saugerties Central School District.

Stone Ridge Library Elects Two to Board

STONE RIDGE Mrs. D. W. Daron, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred S. Holmes, secretary.

Mrs. Olga Gray and Kenneth Davenport were elected to the board of trustees of the Stone Ridge Library at its annual meeting last week. They will both serve for a four-year term.

Mrs. Dewitt Hasbrouck, the head librarian, reported a very active year with a healthy increase in circulation and number of borrowers. With a small grant from the Mid-Hudson Libraries, the historical committee, volunteer group meets to prepare protective scrapbooks for old documents and photographs. The librarian has been able to purchase microfilm of ancient records of great interest and value to the community. With money from the now disbanded Marbletown Community Project, new furniture has been bought for the children's room and it will soon be refurbished with new paint and carpeting.

The summer fair was most successful this year, due, in part, to the addition of a supper dance. The fair brought in almost 50 per cent more than ever before.

The membership drive, the other main source of income for the library, unfortunately, has not been so lucrative. It is hoped that the many friends of the library, who have forgotten to send in their contribution for this year, will be reminded to do so.

At a later meeting the Board of Trustees elected its officers for 1970. Those elected were: the Rev. Wallace R. Randall, president; Mrs. Clifford B. Schoonmaker, vice president;

Chief Brett's Annual Report: $52 Thousand Loss in City Fires

KINGSTON Total fire loss on buildings and contents for 1969 in this city amounted to $52,142.73, it was noted in the annual report of Fire Chief James M. Brett submitted to the Board of Fire Commissioners. During the year firemen responded to 590 calls.

The loss per capita was reported by the chief at $1.78, which Brett noted is incomplete due to the department not receiving reports from some insurance agents to whom questionnaires were mailed.

Twenty-one fires occurred in the city last year for which firemen were not called, and the fire loss to buildings and contents involved totaled $2,780.05, Brett reported.

The total bell alarms for the year was 91. Telephone alarms for fires totaled 303 and during the year 14 false alarms were received on the telephone.

Equipment used at the 1969 fires consisted of 16,450 feet of 1½-inch hose; 17,700 feet of 2½-inch hose, 433 salvage covers, and CO2, dry powder, pressurized water extinguishers, Indian tanks and brooms.

Between Dec. 26 and 30 an emergency existed because of the snow storms, and firemen were recalled to duty.

In his report the chief expressed his gratitude to the commissioners for their "unstinted efforts in behalf of the members of the department to improve their working conditions and salaries again this year." He added "the citizens of Kingston can be justifiably proud of the type of individual who has served on the Board of Fire Commissioners, both past and present."

Expressing appreciation to former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan who served as president of the Fire Board, Brett said "during his tenure great gains were made in the salaries, working conditions, fringe benefits, that at least put the department in a competitive position with local industry and enables us to attract the caliber of personnel desired."

He referred to the last four years and said they represented "the greatest single period of progress in the entire history of the fire department."

Complimenting department members, the chief said in his report, "I am inordinately proud of your technical abilities and the coordinated efficiency you consistently display regardless of the hazardous emergencies you were compelled to cope with from day to day." Brett added that he was honored "to serve with such a valiant and dedicated group as you have proven yourselves to be, year after year."

The chief also commended volunteer fire companies for extending their "valorous and hours devoted to investigation and dedicated service" to the city. "Much of this service was contributed at the direct personal comfort of those members who responded time and again to assignments at the large fires, and at the hazardous conditions.

In concluding a section of report, Brett thanked the Common Council for their cooperation and for providing necessary funds for improvements. He complimented Thomas R. Lyle, and said many physical improvements in the department were directly attributable to Lyle's favorable intervention in the city, and for their cooperation in maintaining maneuverability on the fire grounds, under very trying traffic conditions.

Lyle is the former city clerk.

Charlie's car can be winterized, but can Charlie?

There are a lot of small things to help your car's driving performance this winter. Snow tires. Rain tires. Antifreeze. Things like that.

There are also a lot of small things to improve your driving performance this winter.

Small things like being extra alert, being extra aware of driving conditions, and being aware of how best to deal with those conditions.

Small things like remembering to maintain a constant speed when driving across a patch of ice. Pumping the brakes evenly when you want to stop on a wet or icy road.

Remembering to give yourself extra stopping distance on any slippery surface.

Your new car dealer hopes you'll familiarize yourself with all the little ways you can safely cope with hazardous winter driving conditions.

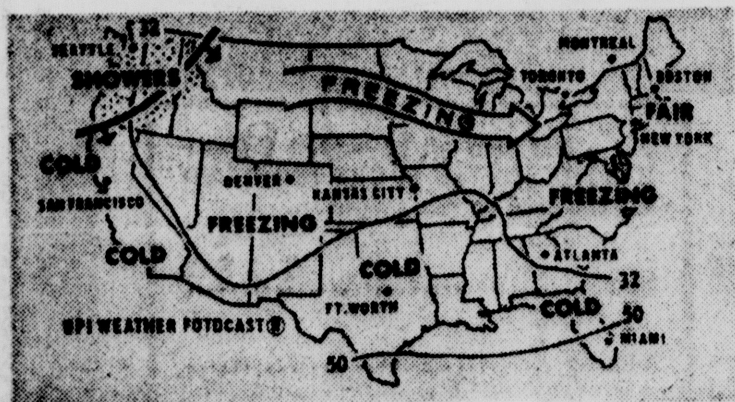

Winter is no time to take risks. There are no special winter additives to keep you going. Don't treat the winter lightly. We want you to enjoy the spring.

Speaker Should Bow Out

House Speaker John W. McCormack is in trouble. He knows it, but at age 78 he has bluntly informed those in his own party who think he should step down as Speaker that he'll fight to stay right where he is. If he carries out this pledge, he will be doing a disservice to the party that has helped him spend a veritable lifetime in Washington, and that in 1962 advanced him to the House speakership, which in power is outranked only by the presidency itself.

The withering crossfire that has pinned down the venerable Bay Stater from the Ninth District traces from two facts: First, this is an election year for the House; and secondly, an aide of Mr. McCormack, using the latter's office as a base, has been indicted on charges linked to influence peddling. Members, all of whom must go before the electorate in reelection bids in November, are afraid that the party at the last session compiled a less than attractive record of accomplishment, and they blame what they feel is ineffectual leadership by Mr. McCormack. They also feel the case of Martin Sweig—he was indicted for conspiracy and perjury in connection with the influence peddling charges as was lobbyist Nathan Voloshen—has thrown a cloud over the whole party. His colleagues believe Mr. McCormack when he says he knew nothing about it. But the idea that he could be unaware of such shenanigans going on right in his office make for "bad party image," House Democrats feel.

Republicans are openly determined to wage a fierce fight to put House control in the hands of the GOP. If that happens, Mr. McCormack will automatically yield the post, probably to Michigan's Gerald Ford, but if the Democrats retain the majority, there's going to be an intraparty brawl to replace the incumbent. Already, Mr. McCormack has announced his intention of running again for the $62,500 post.

His ouster is by no means assured. Potential opponents thus far either decline to challenge the old man or can't corral support of all party factions. But when the time comes, it's a virtual certainty Mr. McCormack will be opposed. The cry of "Ingrates!" will inevitably arise. But politics can be a harsh game as a fellow Bay Stater, Joseph W. Martin Jr., found out in the twilight of his notable career, and he was beaten for minority leader after long and illustrious party service. Mr. McCormack's case differs in one important respect from Mr. Martin's: As Speaker, Mr. McCormack is but two heartbeats away from the presidency.

More than the fate of House Democrats at the polls is at stake here. More is at stake than the action taken, or not taken, on key bills. The security of the nation could be at stake.

Mr. McCormack should announce he is not going to seek reelection as Speaker.

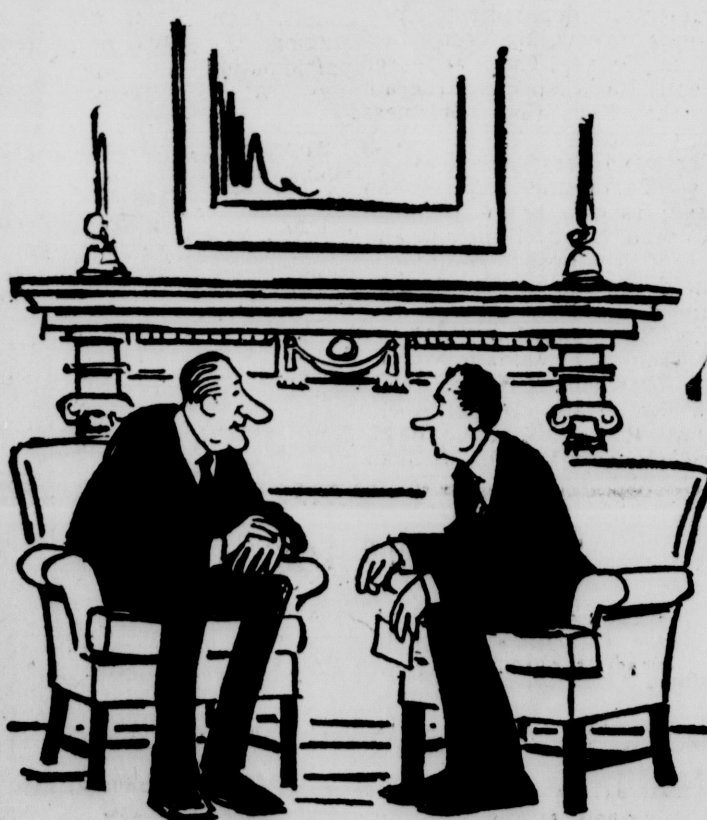

Justice's Blindfold

The theft and forgery of tickets is assuming the proportions of a major headache for the airline industry. An estimate by Franklin Oelschlagel, top security officer for the Air Transport Association of America, places the loss to the airlines in 1969 at $500,000—double the total of the previous year.

In Cleveland recently, a former employee of one airline was arrested for stealing 2,000 blank tickets, potentially worth many thousands of dollars. The arraignment judge, however, reduced the offense to petty larceny on the ground that the man could only be charged with having stolen the actual value of the paper stock.

David Lawrence Says A Remembrance of Lincoln And a Scrutiny of Today

WASHINGTON — There is much ado nowadays about what Judge G. Harold Carswell said in a political speech in 1948 in favor of segregation — six years before the famous decision by the Supreme Court ordering desegregation of the public schools. But it so happens that Abraham Lincoln in 1858, two years before he was elected to the Presidency of the United States, engaged in a series of debates with Stephen A. Douglas — against whom he was running for the U.S. Senate from Illinois — and race problems were discussed at length. Lincoln spoke as follows on Aug. 21, 1858:

"I have no purpose to introduce political and social equality between the white and the black races. There is a physical difference between the two, which in my judgment will probably forever forbid their living together upon the footing of perfect equality, and inasmuch as it becomes a necessity that there must be a difference, I, as well as Judge Douglas, am in favor of the race to which I belong having the superior position. 'I have never said anything to the contrary, but I hold that notwithstanding all this, there is no reason in the world why the Negro is not entitled to all the natural rights enumerated in the Declaration of Independence, THE RIGHT OF LIFE, LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS. I hold that he is as much entitled to these as the white man. I agree with Judge Douglas, he is not my equal in many respects — certainly not in color, perhaps not in moral or intellectual endowment. But in the right to eat the bread, without leave of anybody else, which his own hand earns, he is my equal and the equal of Judge Douglas, and the equal of every living man.'"

In another speech, on Sept. 18, 1858, Lincoln said:

"I will say then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races — that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race. . . ."

"I will add to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

Most people do not realize that the debate on the race question has been going on over a long period and that, prior to the 1954 "Desegregation" decisions, the concept of "separate but equal" was upheld by the Supreme Court with respect to schools, housing, recreation and public vehicles.

Unquestionably, public opinion has crystallized more and more in recent years in favor of the idea that Negroes must not be discriminated against in the use of public facilities such as hotels, restaurants, and transportation. But the question of how public schools shall be "integrated" has by no means been satisfactorily resolved. The principle of "freedom of choice" is still being argued by both blacks and whites.

Many of the Negro leaders feel that there should be black schools and colleges, and there are white leaders who say that only white children should be allowed to go to certain schools. Some school authorities, however, are inclined to favor a pattern of neighborhood schools which both white and Negro children may attend and wherein admission will be open to all children irrespective of race, who actually live within a district.

The problem of hiring and assigning teachers is perhaps the most difficult one of all. Federal authorities lately have been leaning toward the idea of setting up ratios so that a fixed quota of Negro teachers will be employed in each school. This is a difficult system to apply, because it means, in effect, that competent teachers who are white will be rejected in favor of Negro teachers who are not competent, and vice versa. The quality of education given students should, in the final analysis, be the real test.

themselves and "be somebody"—spawning an epidemic of "senseless" crimes nationally.

Witness this statement by a young offender involved in a brutal homicide:

"Momentarily, I started thinking about it inside. I have my mind made up. I'm not going to be in no gang. Then I go on inside. Something comes up. Then here all my friends coming to me. Like I said before, I'm intelligent and so forth. They be coming to me—then they talk to me about what they gonna do. Like, 'Man, we'll go out here and kill this cat.' I say, 'Yeah. They kept on talkin'. I said, 'Man, I just gotta go with you.' Myself, I don't want to go, but when they start talkin' about what they gonna do, I say, 'So, he isn't gonna take over my rep. I ain't gonna let him be known more than me.' And I go ahead, just for selfishness. . . ."

Or listen to what another youth involved in a gang killing told a sociology professor: "If I would of got the knife, I would have stabbed him. That would of gave me more of a build-up. People would have respected me for what I've done and things like that. They would say, 'There goes a cold killer.'"

What Nixon can give the local money-pinchin' police forces (Congress willing) is training, technical equipment, a communications network and a data bank.

What he can't give them is what they need most of all—public support.

Jack Anderson Says Pentagon Biggest Squanderer Is Buying Unusable Equipment

WASHINGTON — A staggering $300 million of the taxpayer's money was dished out by the various agencies of the federal government for brand new equipment which the agencies found last year they could not use.

An investigation by this column has revealed that the biggest squanderer was the Pentagon, whose purchases of unused material accounted for at least 85 per cent of the total.

While 1969 was one of the biggest years in the history of bureaucratic waste, 1970 is off to a skyrocketing start. Already the Army has discovered that its request for 149 combat helmets for U.S. troops in Thailand somehow became garbled and resulted instead in the purchase of more than $1,000 worth of olive green football helmets.

Sheepish Army officials could supply no explanation of this snafu. They said an effort is being made to find another federal agency that may have a need for football helmets.

Elsewhere in the military, the Navy has come up with 18 unused in-flight aircraft refueling kits which cost the public $45,000. These also are sitting in a supply center in Norfolk, Va. waiting to be claimed by some other federal department.

The Navy has 44 guided missile fins, too, which it doesn't need. They are worth $14,784 and, presumably, are available to any other federal department that may have some finless missiles.

The list of unnecessary equipment — much of it new — that has been found in various military installations so far this year is several hundred pages long.

Gas to the Rescue
The brand-new equipment ranges from 612 pair of women's slacks worth more than $2,000 to an electric food warmer valued at $2,000, not to mention a dizzying array of costly electronic and radio gear.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, the millions carelessly tossed about by the Pentagon on unneeded equipment doesn't entirely go to waste.

The General Services Administration has about 325 workers across the country who specialize in finding use inside and outside the government for the goods the military can't use.

According to GSA officials, more than half of the excess equipment is turned over to other federal departments or to state institutions.

Afterwards, the leftovers are put up for sale to the general public. Those goods usually go at bargain prices well below what was initially paid for the equipment.

Although the GSA is justifiably proud of its efficiency in cleaning up after the Pentagon, no one in the agency argues that it would not be better to avoid the kind of haphazard purchasing practices which produce these vast quantities of excess material every year.

In addition to disposing of unusable new goods, the GSA also is charged with helping to get rid of excess used equipment and real estate for federal departments.

The frantic pace of the arms race has produced some extraordinary used property for disposal by the GSA.

For example, when a generation of Atlas and Titan guided missiles became obsolete a few years ago, the GSA ended up with a bunch of holes in the ground in remote areas of the Dakotas, Colorado and Nevada to try to sell. The holes had been missile silos.

The agency also has been charged with selling or giving away freighters of up to 15 tons, human skeletons, elk, sheep, goats, pigs, shipments of cut timber, piles of sand and crops of grain.

There is a steady flow of old weapons and used motor vehicles. All kinds of airplanes come up for sale and even religious equipment such as portable altars, chalices and altar cloths end up in the surplus hopper.

By far, the most popular items, say GSA officials, are jeeps which are snapped up immediately regardless of their condition.

A Better Idea

David Boon is one of those "forgotten Americans" who believes in thriftiness with public funds. So he suggested to an Army Incentive Awards committee that money could be saved by buying cars without cigarette lighters.

Army drivers aren't supposed to smoke while driving anyway. And the passenger in the front seat, if he is obeying military regulations to wear a seat belt, can't reach the lighter.

At $3 to $4 savings on each vehicle, considering the thousands of military vehicles, Boon's idea could save a lot of money. But in this billion-dollar age, the Pentagon has become cavalier about a trifling few hundred thousand dollars.

Sorry, wrote back the Army.

"Removal of lighters will not hinder anyone who wants to smoke," Boon was informed by Joseph F. Pisano, executive secretary of the Awards Committee of Tobyhanna Army Depot, Pa. This non-answer puzzled Boon, since his suggestion was intended to save money, not hinder smokers.

Perhaps Boon, then of Wilkes-Barre, now of Crisfield, Md., is lucky he is not being investigated or fired from his job. That is what happened to Air Force efficiency expert Ernest Fitzgerald when he blew the whistle on military waste.

Henry J. Taylor Says A Lesson for Lenny

Famed impresario Leonard Bernstein is in deserved trouble with the Jewish community. Distinguished Rabbi Meir Kahane, the Jewish Defense League's national chairman, has blasted Bernstein for giving a 90-guest Park Avenue fundraising party to aid the legal defenses of a group of Black Panthers.

Rabbi Kahane expressed "dis may" at Bernstein's joining a "trend in liberal and intellectual circles to lionize the Black Panthers."

He scathingly reminds Bernstein of the smallness — the surprising smallness — and the vulnerability of the Jewish minority. There are only 13.7 million Jews in the entire world. Of Europe's four million Jews, about 2.6 million live in Russia. More Jews live in the U.S.S.R. than in Israel. France has the largest Western European Jewish community: 535,000. The Jews are overwhelmingly concentrated (5.9 million) in the United States, and about one out of every three lives in the single city of New York; 1.8 million. New Jersey, California, Connecticut and Florida follow in that order of concentration. But, in total, they constitute less than 3 per cent of our population.

Said Rabbi Kahane: "We defend the rights of blacks to form defense groups, but they've gone beyond this to a group which hates other people. That's not nationalism, that's Nazism. And if Bernstein and other such intellectuals do not know this they know nothing."

Stokely Carmichael coined the phrase "Black Power." Today the Black Panthers are its most militant representatives. And Rabbi Kahane insists that Bernstein, et al., endanger national attitudes toward the Jewish community by even the slightest semblance of supporting them.

The Jewish community is, and always has been, the largest source of funds for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People — the Jewish minority supporting another minority. But the Black Panther program, Rabbi Kahane pointed out, poisons the Negro movement. Its purpose is not to compose but to annihilate; not to reconcile but to crush; not to build but to destroy.

The average American calls irreconcilable demands irresponsible. The Black Panthers, however, call these turning Whitey on. They even give their technique a label. It is called "The Game." This is a constant, violent, relentless probing to find out "what Whitey is prepared to accept." Rabbi Kahane asked if Bernstein and other intellectuals who lionize the Black Panthers are blind to "The Game."

We call what we see "riots." The Black Panthers call this "insurrection." What we call "looting" they call "rebellion." Thus they self-excite entirely the violence behind their shouts of "Kill Whitey. Kill Mr. Charley. Burn, baby, burn" or "Don't pay your taxes. Don't send black boys to the Vietnam war."

As one result, an official FBI Uniform Crime Report, compiled on the basis of 111,404 arrests in areas comprising 124 million persons, found Negroes predominating over whites by a ratio of 13 to 1 for murder, manslaughter and robbery. For assaults and rape the ratio was 10 to 1; disorderly conduct 5 to 1; burglary and larceny 4 to 1. Forget it, Black Panthers say. In fact, they claim this tragic preponderance is all to the good if it helps "turn Whitey on."

Meanwhile, a Harris poll in Pittsburgh's Negro section finds that only 14 per cent of the Negro community gets its news of national or local riots ("insurrection") from the news media. Its information comes word-of-mouth; Negro words from Negro mouths into Negro ears — like wildfire. This is the communications belt that the Black Panthers, preaching anarchy, constantly set afire by every inflammatory means that they and their brain trust can contrive.

Accordingly, the influence of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., of Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young and such other Negro leaders slides downhill at toboggan speed. They are increasingly called "Uncle Tom" Negroes, as if still enslaved by the whites.

In "The Game" black power advocate Dan Watts, editor of The Liberator newspaper in New York City states: "Our problem is: How far can we afford to go before Whitney turns off the bread?" ("Bread" means money.) Rabbi Kahane properly castigates Bernstein, et al., for not turning off the "bread" and, instead, helping to supply it. Surely, the distinguished Rabbi is as wise as Mr. Bernstein is stupid. Don't we have enough dangers in our country already?

The portion of a steel that makes it so difficult to play, and so expensive, are the pedals. These are levers hanging

Tiny Tips

When buying synthetic sponges, try to get ones with reinforced edges.

SPONGE DEPENDS ON JOB

According to the experts, a natural sponge is more satisfactory than a synthetic sponge where heavy jobs are concerned. These jobs include washing down walls, ceilings, cars and windows. Why? Because the intricate canal system of the natural sponge gives it greater absorbency than the synthetic.

SPINACH
Choose young tender leaves when you are adding spinach to a tossed green salad.

Mario Gains Post Spot

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — last year, the defending champion (UPI)—Pint-sized Mario Andretti, driving a bright red Ferrari, sought today to muscle in on Porsche's recent dominance of international sports car racing, leading a powerful field in the grueling 24 Hours of Daytona race.

Andretti, the Indianapolis 500 winner, held the pole position for the endurance race—first in the 1970 international season. The little Pennsylvania grabbed the top spot with a record qualifying speed of 122.903 miles per hour in his five-liter 12S Ferrari. The race was to start at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Four of the five new five-liter Italian cars started among the first 10 in the field of 65 racers—but they were not the favorites. Andretti barely broke the old qualifying record on a wet Daytona speedway track and road course Friday.

And right behind Andretti were the baby blue and orange Porsche 917S of Joe Siffert-Brian Redman, Pedro Rodriguez-Leo Kinnunen and Kurt Ahrens-Vic Elford.

Codriving with Andretti in the race will be his young Italian Arturo Merzario. Andretti will start the race but said that he will depend on Merzario to spell him at regular two-hour intervals.

"He looks thin," said Andretti, "but he's as strong as can be."

"We hope we can do well," he added, "Ferrari has put on a crash program to get these cars ready. Porsche is a little faster on acceleration. But the key to this one, of course, is endurance."

After a week of unseasonably hot weather, the temperature dropped abruptly into the 50s early Friday and the cool weather—plus a new air hose attached to the outside of the Italian cars to draw fresh air directly to the fuel pump—helped the Ferraris.

"We are not having any troubles now," said Ferrari team manager Dr. Franco Gozzi. "We have had some bugs but the mechanics have been working very hard and we think we will be all right."

Ferrari won the world sports car racing manufacturer's championship 12 of 16 years up until 1967 when the Modena plant dropped out of the very expensive involvement for two years. But this year the firm is back with the new five-liter cars.

If the Porsches and Ferraris fail in the car-killing grind, as five factory Porsche 908's incredibly fell by the wayside

Both winners are 24 years old and the youngest in the 16-man field. Lassie and Balsis are former world champions.

Margo gets a shot at another world champ Saturday afternoon when he faces Cicero Murphy of Brooklyn, N. Y. The Saturday night matches feature Irving Crane of Rochester, N. Y. versus John Ervolino, Brooklyn, and Lassie against Dallas West, Rockford, Ill.

First Derby Date: Feb. 7

KINGSTON — The staff of Ray Chevrolet and the Kingston Jaycees will be on hand to dispense all the information needed to qualify an entrant for the second annual derby on July 11.

The Jaycees have received word from Detroit that their application for a 1970 coasting franchise has been approved, thereby qualifying Kingston to send a representative to Chevrolet's international finals in Akron, Ohio, on Aug. 15.

Derby Director Peter Kearney, taking note of the second soap box derby in Kingston, said, "The derby gives youngsters an opportunity to participate in a constructive form of competition—one that allows them to apply their initiative and creative ability."

Winner of the 1970 Kingston race will receive a handsome trophy and a $500 U.S. Savings Bond from the national sponsor—Chevrolet. He'll then compete in Akron for a share of $30,000 in college scholarships.

Some 260 youngsters from throughout the United States and from the Canal Zone, Canada, Okinawa, the Philippines, Venezuela and West Germany are expected to compete in the 33rd All-American on Aug. 15.

Last year, the program reached an estimated 70,000 boys between the ages of 11 and 15. A record field of 258 entries competed in the world final at Akron, with Bo Durand, of Woodstock, representing the Kingston area.

Top performers for the Colonials were Mary Pechloff, Penny Spiesman, Billy Gogg and Jeff Stockin with three firsts each, in addition to relay events.

The two relays are favored to take first places in the Hudson Valley Swim League meet at Poughkeepsie on May 3.

Philbin No TV Patsy Now

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of the problems of television's network programming is that there is such pressure on performers to deliver big ratings—that they rarely have a chance to show their graceful sides.

Every minute counts. The tempo is high-powered. And therefore almost everything is unnatural. Because in natural settings, there are natural ebbs and flows of personality, of conversation, of everything. And when somehow this naturalness happens—when the impersonality of the home screen is overcome—there is a sort of satisfying wonder on the part of viewers. Because this is what video is really all about.

Regis Philbin now has a 90-minute off-network show in which celebrities from different fields meet and talk about a table. It is called "Philbin's People," and there is very often good conversation and report, and it takes some adjustment to realize just how good the show is because in the immediate past Philbin had to play patsy to Joey Bishop on the ABC-TV late-night series.

Bishop would make with the jokes, and Philbin did his best, but since he was the handiest patsy he was often the butt of the gags. This builds a kind of image for a fellow. In addition, ABC apparently once wanted to dump Philbin from the now-defunct Bishop series, and Regis quit dramatically but finally came back after a talk with Bishop.

Well, now the network period is—at least temporarily—gone for Philbin. And I hope you get a chance to watch "Philbin's People." The outing I saw in Los Angeles on a recent week-end was one of the best talk shows I have ever seen on television.

Philbin's guests were Don Drysdale, ex-pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers; Bernie Casey, former end for the Los Angeles Rams and now a poet and artist; politician Jesse Unruh; Vin Scully, veteran broadcaster for the Dodgers of their own careers. People and a television personality in acted alive, and there was a grant and Shani Wallis. At first video should be.

Across the Wide Expanse of the Hudson, an Ice-Clogged Wasteland

Full Week's TV Listing From Feb. 1 Thru Feb. 7

Music That Puts the Emphasis on You

What does the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society mean to Ulster and Dutchess Counties? Enough for the general population to want to make whatever small donation it can in the face of a seemingly intractable financial crisis for the musical organization.

And how does the layman go about showing his appreciation of the Philharmonic Orchestra, and the sense of life and human quality it provides in the Hudson Valley? Concerned about the future of the Philharmonic, the average citizen is doing what he can. Around the counties that claim this orchestra as their own, people are being invited to such happenings as apres ski parties. Or to baked goods sales featuring sweets created by Philharmonic members in their own kitchens.

Others have made donations for a painting prize; held brunches; slated small benefit concerts in halls and private homes in New Paltz, Walden, Pine Bush, Pawling. And they've volunteered their services to help raise contributions in a sustaining fund drive; organized rummage sales and art auctions; tossed teen-age dances and sponsored luncheons and flower arranging learn-ins.

In Kingston, New Paltz, Saugerties, Woodstock and Hurley, hundreds of people have pitched in to help raise money for the Philharmonic. There has been no talk yet of imminent bankruptcy, but those who believe the contributions made to life here by the orchestra are vital, are doing what they can to forestall any curtailing of its musical services.

Because the Philharmonic is looked upon by everyone as a part of our cultural heritage here—one that must endure because it is one of our essential area resources—people in every part of the valley are thinking of ways to solicit contributions for HVP during February's month-long sustaining fund drive.

One way you can help is with an outright donation. Another way is to attend the opening day's performances of "Funny Girl," the fabulous Barbra Streisand musical, on Wednesday, Feb. 4 at Kingston's Community Theatre. Opening days proceeds from the matinee or the first evening performance will benefit HVP.

Staggering financial problems beset the Philharmonic, and the February fund drive is all important. As such, it will be a campaign different from all past efforts. Seeking small donations from the general population, the drive will be personally directed by Claude Monteux, the maestro of the Philharmonic.

"We've just about exhausted all other ways of raising funds and we have a three-year backlog of accumulated deficit," Monteux says. "Our debt is far greater than ever before."

In a two-pronged drive—Monteux's campaign and another aimed at business and industry, to be run by Philharmonic manager Wilfred Springer—the organization will try its best to raise $75,000.

A lot of money? Perhaps. But worth the effort to assure the future of this leading symphony orchestra. The $75,000 campaign is necessary, says Monteux, because "running an orchestra is no small budget affair."

The Philharmonic offers to this area 77 superlative musicians, along with internationally famous guest artists. The musicians must be paid; the guest artists are not free; and a staff is needed to run the complicated three-county organization, which performs in Orange as well as Ulster and Dutchess.

Then there are all those small expenses the public seldom bothers to wonder about. Like the rental of music at high rates when the music cannot be purchased. Like travel costs and expenses. Always, Monteux has found, a performance costs more than it earns, with the result that deficits accumulate.

The plight of our own Philharmonic differs not one whit from other musical and art groups around the U.S. All of them face staggering financial problems or an audience crisis. The only difference here should be that the problems and crisis will be overcome . . . for any

MONTEUX EXPLAINS THE FLUTE to two youngsters during one of the many in-school concerts presented throughout this area by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Should the orchestra's deficits be allowed to grow larger, children locally would suffer an irreparable loss in musical enrichment through possible discontinuance of HVPS programs in the schools.

Prettybelle: One-of-a-Kind Lady

A fresh literary breeze from the South is arriving just in time to combat the icy winds of the Catskills winter. She'll arrive in the person of Prettybelle Sweet, a one-of-a-kind lady and the central character in a new novel by Jean Arnold of Woodstock.

The art colony author's latest book is titled "Prettybelle," and is due off the presses Feb. 11, courtesy of New York City's Dial Press. The new novel is her second published work in recent years. Her first, "Fausto's Keyhole," released in 1962, was as unusual tale of a male hairdresser in Italy. The New Yorker praised it as "beautifully written," and The Saturday Review hailed Jean Arnold for "her gifts for dialog and sensuous exposition."

Her new book makes the transition from a young man in Italy to a middle-aged but still irrepressible Southern lady with no loss of insight into what motivates her characters. "Prettybelle" is already being hailed as "one of the real comic sleepers of early 1970," and Jean Arnold is receiving critical kudos for her "superb satire, wild and wacky dialog, and telling truths."

Lively Reading

It is indeed lively reading. . . a southern comfort that's fun. The heroine lives in a small town that might be anywhere in the deep South. She is funny, perverse, irrepressible, sassy, pathetic, and admirable; attributes that serve her well since she is married to Sheriff Leroy Sweet, known for his brutal treatment of local blacks. But life with Leroy has not repressed her. She is a secret contributor to the NAACP and other black causes; the financier behind the education of her cook's son; and a seeker of further ways to shake off her husband's crimes.

All in all, "Prettybelle" is a warm and witty, marvelously funny novel in which author Arnold takes on the whole of American society from black militants to Huntley-Brinkley; from the stereotyped "Southern belle" to courtroom justice; and from psychiatry in a rural Southern asylum to tippling sour mash in the pantry.

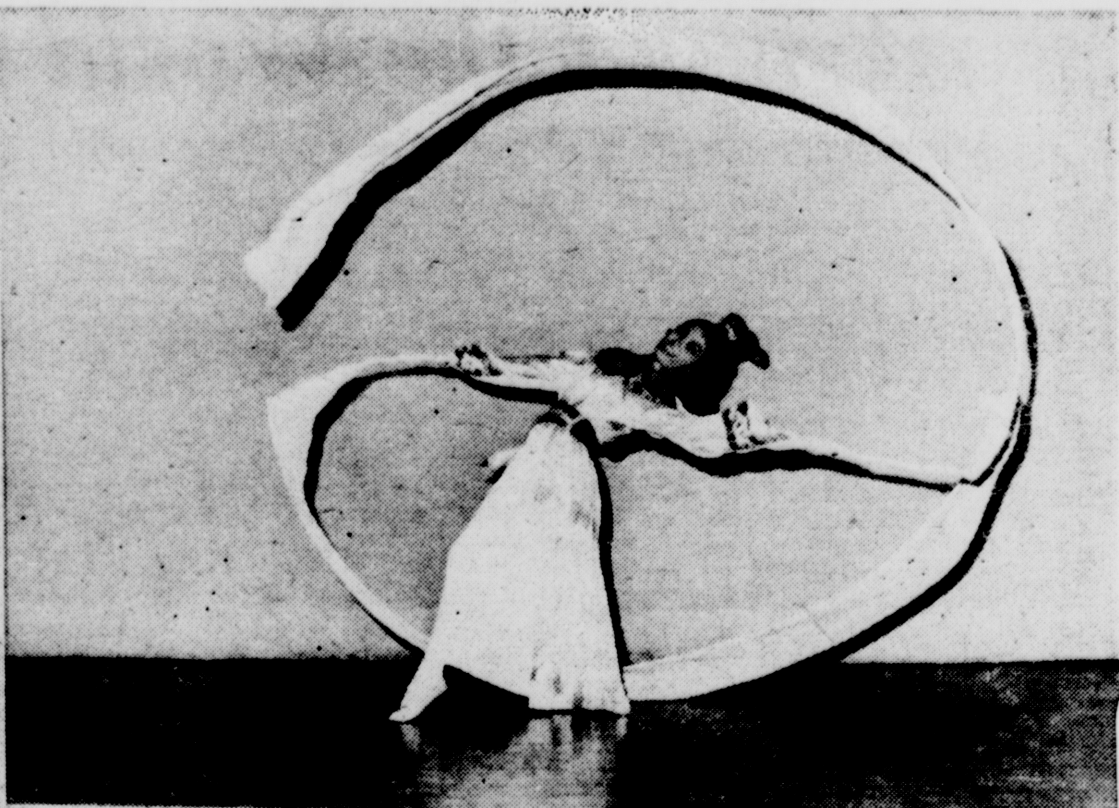

Jean Arnold knows whereof she writes. The daughter of a Georgia newspaperman, she was born in Washington, D.C., and was educated at the universities of Miami, Pittsburgh, and Rome. She has worked as a reporter and editor in New York and Europe, and as a teacher of English literature at the University of Pittsburgh and Bard College.

A resident of Woodstock for close to 20 years, she is married to Fletcher Martin, one of the most celebrated artists in the U.S. Indeed, husband and wife have pooled their talents for "Prettybelle." The story of the

Global Artistry

Some twelve entertaining acts will be presented by a roster of talented performers from all parts of the globe in "Around the World in 90 Minutes," the celebrated and acclaimed International House review coming to Saugerties soon. Among the diverse and exceptional singers, dancers and musicians featured in "Minutes" (clockwise) are: Maldwyn Pate from Wales, Tina Yuan of Taiwan, Japan's Hiroko Furusawa, Hasna Jasimuudin of Pakistan, and Godfrey Sackeyfio from Ghana.

The five performers, along with many others from International House, will present a lively review on Saturday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Saugerties High School Auditorium.

"Around the World" has performed in many states to high acclaim as fast-moving and irresistible entertainment. The program covers a wide spectrum of the arts from operatic areas to gay native folk music and dances from all corners of the world. Also included: a wealth of comic surprises, along with pantomime.

Working Together

International House, which originated the touring show as a means toward better understanding between countries, is a well known institution in New York City. It has an excellent reputation as a residence and program center designed to give foreign and American graduate students the opportunity to develop mutual respect and understanding through living and working together. And from its ranks have come some of the finest performing artists of the day.

The Saugerties Organ Fund Committee, which is sponsoring the performance on Feb. 7, is to be commended for this continuing effort to increase the cultural aspect of the community, as well as for seeing to it that all senior citizens will be admitted free. All others interested in this rare entertainment should purchase tickets now on sale at P. C. Smith's in Saugerties, Abrams in Kingston, and Kingston Music Center, Ulster Plaza.

Around the World on a 'Skiing Ball'

SKIERS SKIMMING down an area hillside are all home-grown. They're enjoying a snowful day at Phoenicia's Simpson Slope. For them, Ulster County weekend skiing is more to be desired than tours abroad for a week-long stay at Norway's finest resort.

"SNOW BALL" TOURS TO NORWAY have really caught on among U.S. and Canadian skiers; are popular because they offer complete package tours to three ski centers, namely Voss and Geilo in Norway and to Are in Sweden. Pictured here, the mountain village of Voss, one of the most popular ski centers in Norway where they's always snow and a fine network of modern skilifts. Next departures: Feb. 26 and March 29. Contact Scandinavian National Travel Offices, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017.

THE OLD MEETS THE NEW at Park City, Utah, this year. Park City is celebrating its 100th anniversary amid up-to-date ski facilities like this gondola lift—the longest in the nation—and the world's only mine tunnel ski lift. All this in addition to "Greatest Show on Earth!" Take a train or a plane—but if you're a skier, go!

THE FINGER LAKES REGION, primarily known as a summer vacationland, has skiing appeal, too. There are 17 ski centers throughout that area, all offering a variety of slopes and trails. And they're among the finest in the northeast; are equipped with chair lifts and snow-making machinery.

BACK TO THE CATSKILLS again and a photographic stop at Hunter. Adults swear by Hunter as the finest skiing complex in the Empire State. So crowded has it become on weekends that a 30-member Courtesy Patrol now operates to unsmarl traffic on the slopes. Kids like Hunter, too, because no matter how young, they learn to slalom in short order at its ski school which specializes in private lessons.

NOT MUCH CAN BE ADDED to that already said about the superb snow available to skiers at Alta, Utah. Slopes delight champions and novices from late November to mid-May at the much-publicized resort located 25 miles southeast of Salt Lake City. As if there's not enough snow in the Catskills currently, one group of local skiers plans to make the Alta trip before the season's end.

Something Quite Different and Special

A rock musical modeled after Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology"...? Impossible, you say!

Not only possible—but a highly successful and captivating experiment that generates musical excitement.

Seems that down in New York City at a place called The Twelve Steps, an upstairs club on 54th Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, a show called "Neighbors, An East River Anthology," has been playing to mixed media raves four nights a week. Headed up by its talented author and chief performer, Carl Esser, and his own four-piece rock combo answering to the name of "A More Perfect Union," this serious and successful effort to re-write and update "Spoon River" has been hailed by major critics as "different," "quite special," and "total theater that emerges as completely integrated multimedia."

Now, thanks to the foresight of Performing Arts of Woodstock, the talented Carl Esser and his cabaret theater group will bring "Neighbors" to the Catskills for three performances. The rock musical, under PAW's sponsorship, will be presented Friday, Feb. 6 at 11:30 p.m., and again on Saturday, Feb. 7 at a 3 p.m. matinee and 11:30 p.m. performance. All shows will take to the stage of the Tinker Street Cinema, with seats priced at $2 each.

What the youthful matinee audience and more sophisticated late-night viewers will see will be A More Perfect Union in music of their own creation. The four musicians take turns singing and reciting, along with two actresses, the epitaphs of some 30 fictitious, futile but philosophical New York East Side "neighbors." As in the Masters' original, we meet these characters, portrayed through words, songs and instruments, after death, viewing their lives in retrospect; seeing them as nonheroes and life's losers now buried in a cemetery in Queens. Esser, who toured with the stage "Spoon River," has shown artistic genius in updating the moving and ever-popular Masters' work. Among the 1970 characters holding on to hopes and illusions just as did the drifters, doers and dreamers of Spoon River: a fiddler who feels he played at Carnegie Hall just by fiddling in front of it; an elevator operator who gets too fat for his job; a neoprimitive artist who tries to create a masterpiece out of Reynolds Wrap; a pretty girl whose downfall leads to suicide; and a Vietnam private accidentally killed by his own artillery.

Musically exciting theater, "Neighbors" combines moving and humorous poetry, music that deserves to be wrapped up in an album all its own, effective and beautiful color slides, and a combination of music and theatre that excels. Esser's rhythm guitar and the vocal styling of the respective characters make for rock that is rare, unusually believable and often poignant.

For irony and humor, for music that transcends most rock, "Neighbors, An East River Anthology" cannot come more highly recommended by Tempo. We suggest the 11:30 p.m. performances are well worth staying up late for. Indeed, it would hardly be cabaret theatre otherwise.

Advance reservations can be made by calling Elaine Vincent at 679-2920 or Edith LeFever at 679-2114.

Last weekend, Performing Arts outdid itself in presenting a midnight performance by literate and witty playwright Charles Gordone. Those who saw and heard the much publicized author of "No Place to Be Somebody" agreed the evening was one of the most delightful and entertaining offerings ever. Next weekend, PAW will come up with something just as novel in "Neighbors." We suggest you will not want to miss an experience that has been attracting enthralled audiences of all types to its New York showings for more than three months. (T.G.)

'Romeo and Juliet' Will Tour

Orange County Community College's recent student production of "Romeo and Juliet" has been chosen as one of four campus productions to tour other colleges of the State University of New York during the spring term.

Announcement of the honor for the OCCC dramatic tragedy was made this week in a letter from Chancellor Samuel P. Gould of SUNY to Assistant Professor John P. Blue, chairman of OCCC's speech and theater department. Professor Blue was also director of the play.

Selected with "Romeo and Juliet" from among 13 contesting productions were student shows from the four-year colleges at Brockport, Cortland and Potsdam. Judge for the theatrical competition was Dennis Sweeting of the Canadian Guild of Drama Adjudicators.

A Way to Share

"The program of Touring Student Productions is an important way in which we are able to share the fine artistic accomplishments of one campus with the students and faculty at other campuses," Chancellor Gould said in his letter to Professor Blue.

The OCCC production is eligible for a SUNY supporting grant of up to $2,000 to assist with costs relating to a one-week tour later in the spring. SUNY campuses will have a choice of which touring show they wish to see. No dates have been set yet for the tours.

Professor Blue said today that he and members of the Apprentice Players, the OCCC drama group, felt "terrific" about the designation. The play will probably be presented once more at OCCC before the tour, the director noted.

"Romeo and Juliet" was staged on Nov. 20-22 in OCCC's Orange Hall theater at Middletown with a cast and crew of 31, and played to three standing-room-only audiences. The title roles were played by Jeanine Guertin of Middletown and William Gustafson of New York City.

Prettybelle

determined Prettybelle, who weathers her sheriff husband's death and funeral, her mother-in-law's eccentricity, and even a bout with rape, is all Miss Arnold's. The attractive jacket design of the star-wearing, cigar-puffing sheriff and the demure, blue-eyed Prettybelle is the work of her painter husband, Fletcher Martin.

The Martins are presently spending the winter away from Woodstock while basking in the sun of Mexico. The new novel will, therefore, make its debut while she is out of the country. If pre-publicity on the book is an indication, she may come home to a best-seller. (T.G.)

Man's Anxiety About His Future

Man's anxiety about his immediate future — a future based on today's violence, conformity and atomic weaponry — is expressed by film makers from Italy, Belgium, Australia and France on NET Playhouse "Five Tomorrows," Friday, February 6 at 8:30 on Channel 17 and 13. The five film dramas are introduced by Kurt Vonnegut, Jr. "Five," "Cat's Cradle" and "Player Piano."

Storaro dramatizes the hero's struggle to maintain his identity in a super-state which demands total suppression of the individual for the sake of society. Belgian "Herman Wuyts" play "The Other Side" looks at the question of whether man's desire for freedom still remains when law and order is carried to its ultimate point.

An Underground Silo. Produced for Australian television, "Silo" by Gregory Martin is about two men trapped in an underground missile silo who have the power to flick a switch and destroy the world. They discover that the weapon they have created now controls them.

A second film by the Italians Bazzoni and Storaro projects "The Fall of Varena" a city of the future where violence and irrational hate have finally destroyed its life.

"Faster! Faster!" is the fifth and final film in this series — a fast-paced animation depicting speed without direction, by Peter Foldes of France.

What was it like to spend that half a million young people three days living love and enjoyed in a muddy cow pasture peace? A dozen organizers and last summer. The twelve also participants give their view of talk about some of the lessons last summer's nationally they learned from the events reported Woodstock Music Festival Sunday, February 1 to 6 p.m. on Channel 17's "The David Susskind Show."

Susskind's guests include Arnie Kornfeld, a top song writer and former record producer who handled the publicity for Woodstock, and Mike Lang who was responsible for getting all the talent for the festival. The guests talk about the rock, the pot, the sex and the discomfort of a "groupy?"

David Susskind will interview five of them on the second half of his show. Susskind describes a groupy as female, 15-25 years old, a follower of a rock star, a super-fan who serves him as a kind of Geisha girl. The groupies Susskind interviews are Jennie Dean, Geri Miller, Jan Grenier, Cleo Odzer and Cookie Davidson.

George's Resentment of Criticism Produced Popular Saratoga Chips

In the pages of history, one name has gone long unnoticed. The name—George Crum, a talented innovator who has had an effect on almost every American. In the early 1800's, George Crum was born of a union between a mulatto jockey and a Stockbridge Indian maid. Crum worked as a guide in the Adirondacks, and he was taught the finer points of cooking by a sophisticated Frenchman who employed him. It was said, most frequently by Crum himself, that he could take any food and transform it into a dish fit for a king.

Soon after the Lake House was opened at Saratoga, New York in 1853, George Crum was hired there as a cook. Very few of the Lake House's customers had any complaints about his cooking. After all, George didn't accept criticism very well. A few who did complain would occasionally return their food to the kitchen. George would reward them with the most indigestible concoctions he could create.

One day, a dissatisfied diner ventured to return his French fried potatoes with orders to fry them longer and slice them thinner.

Seeking the Unappetizing

When George Crum received his instructions, he tried to think of a way to make the potatoes as unappetizing as possible. So he sliced them into paper-thin shavings, bundled them into a napkin and dropped them into a tub of ice water. A half hour later, he dumped the cold slices into a kettle of boiling grease. They fried into curly crisps which George salted and sent back to the complainer's table.

Peeking around the door, George was amazed to see that the complainer was delighted with his potato wafers, and that other diners, tasting the wafers, were equally delighted.

The demand for Crum's potatoes was so great that soon the crisp potato wafers became famous. They were known by a new name—Saratoga chips.

Of course, these were the first potato chips in the world, accidentally created by George Crum in Saratoga, New York. They became famous all over the world. The French liked them so much that they insisted that France had invented them—totally untrue.

It is to George Crum, that long neglected innovator, that we owe today's potato chips.

'Snow Queen' Slated

February will bring a delightful children's entertainment event to the area, one which is well worth a family trip to the Bennett College campus in Millbrook. The Dutchess County college has slated eight performances of "The Snow Queen," the beautiful Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale for mid-February. The performance to be presented at Bennett is an original adaptation by Hank Sparks. "The Snow Queen" will be staged on campus in the Little Theater, Mellon Center for the Arts, at the following times: Wednesday, Feb. 11 at 3 and 8 p.m.; Thursday, Feb. 12 at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 13 at 8 p.m.; Saturday, Feb. 14 at 10 a.m. and again at 2 and 8 p.m. To order tickets in advance, those interested should call 677-3441, Ext. 237 on or after Feb. 5. On performance dates, Feb. 11-13, Ext. 206 should be used after 5 p.m., and on Saturday, Feb. 14, Ext. 206 will take ticket reservations between 1 and 8 p.m.

A Welcome Relief

NEW YORK (UPI)—This may be small relief, but it is welcome nonetheless—the announcement that NBC has ordered an additional four episodes for the "Julia" series, starring Diahann Carroll, making a total of 30 instead of 26 episodes. This means there will be four less reruns of this program during the summer. Time was when the standard for series shows was approximately 33 episodes. In recent years, the figure has shrunk to 26, meaning that a program that started in September would be in reruns for six months beginning April 1.

A 'Two in One' Art Exhibition

The varying artistry of James Sears and Francis Goodline is featured in a joint exhibit, at Mount Saint Mary College Library, Newburgh.

A Newburgh resident, Sears began painting in 1964. Most of his works are centered on the human figure—an artistic interest he developed through study at American Art School in New York City.

Sears has exhibited his work at Hand Gallery in Poughkeepsie. A member of Garrison Art Center, he presently has an exhibit at Galerie Object D'Art, Southfield, N. Y.

Sea and Landscapes

Seascapes, particularly of Rockport, Massachusetts, are the central interest in Goodline's paintings. He is noted for his skill in depicting patterns and depths in the water. Also on exhibit are several of Goodline's New England landscapes and still-lives.

Many of Goodline's works are on permanent display in the college's Aquinas Hall. His sister, Sister M. Willamina, was a member of the Newburgh Dominican Order.

Visitors to the college are invited to view the exhibit during the week, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

LIZA MINNELLI and WENDELL BURTON (center right) seem happy enough at college beer bash. But before their story has run its course in "The Sterile Cuckoo," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre, disenchantment mars the appealing tale of their first love.

MOVIES

The Sterile Cuckoo

This honest, unsentimental drama is brilliantly performed; could well be the sleeper of the year. "Cuckoo" is a bleak appraisal of alienated American youth; offers proof that 19 is not the best time of anyone's life.

With its unsparing honesty and fine performances, it is enjoying both critical and box office success. Newly arrived at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre, its appeal among students should be tremendous, and the picture is already enjoying one of the most widespread word-of-mouth campaigns ever locally.

Unlike "The Graduate," there is no happy ending; unlike "Goodbye, Columbus," there is no handsome couple like Ali McGraw and Richard Benjamin—but "The Sterile Cuckoo" does have an impressive performance by Liza Minnelli as the plain, neurotic Pookie Adams who overextends her reach when she grasps for happiness in the guise of Wendell Burton. Miss Minnelli, who proved herself an actress with her performance in "Charlie Bubbles," does not attempt to glamorize her role or to make Pookie more lovable than she actually is. Rather, she has chosen to emphasize Pookie's humanity, her nervous energy, and her intelligence. The result is a Pookie not so entertainingly wacky as believable and dramatically moving.

Wendell Burton is fine as the square Jerry who carelessly lets himself be drawn into a relationship with Pookie, then rather brutally destroys her in an effort to extract himself from it.

The film, shot in and around upper New York State's beautiful Hamilton College campus, really "tells it like it is," captures the loneliness and intensity that often accompanies the isolation of small campuses, as well as the funny-sad quality of first love.

Johnny Cash — The Man, His World, His Music

Johnny Cash went from singing at Memphis church socials to his present world-wide popularity as the chief catalyst of country music. And the movie, "Johnny Cash — The Man, His World, His Music," now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre, does much to explain why Cash cleared over $2 million last year, and will probably do even better this year.

His deep, twanging bass-baritone is heard throughout the film in song lyrics that are simple and deal with subjects which anyone can identify with. The movie is actually a pop-music documentary in which cameras trailed Cash for more than six months, filming him in performance with June Carter, Carl Perkins, Bob Dylan, and others. It shows him in his celebrated free concerts in prisons; visiting an Indian reservation; in back-stage interviews; and at home in Nashville.

Of the roughly 40 numbers in the film, Cash sings 23. And in all of them the Cash charisma comes through. The movie allows audiences to get to know Cash well, and to better understand why this unusual performer causes unexpected responses from unlikely people. Even people who usually dislike country music are almost immediately won over when they see Cash.

The unobtrusiveness of the camera, a stylistic feature of this school of documentary, is particularly appropriate to the honest simplicity of country music. Produced on a limited budget, the film is excellent, with all aspects meshing artistically in an atmospheric, evocative and often touching movie.

Me, Natalie

Beginning Sunday, the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties will be offering "Me, Natalie." Natalie is Patty Duke, an ugly duckling and only child of a middle class Brooklyn couple. At 18, she's convinced she'll never be pretty. Unhappy high school experiences with blind dates and a present lack of any dating experiences, confirm her belief, and she hides her injured pride behind abrasive wit-ticisms.

Embarrassed by her well-meaning, panicky parents' attempts to marry her off, she moves to a rickety brownstone apartment in Greenwich Village, becomes a waitress in a night club, buys a motorcycle and begins to live. Her brief affair with a young married architect shows her that she can be needed and loved, and lets her face the world as a self-assured young woman.

Miss Duke is both touching

DIANNA RIGG is James Bond's newest love interest in "On Her Majesty's Secret Service." In fact, agent 007 marries her in the film which is now holding forth at Red Hook's Lyceum Theatre.

WATER-COLOR LANDSCAPE of woods in winter is one of 12 such recent works by High Woods artist-photographer Charles Bryson, now on exhibit in Bethany Hall, Old Dutch Church, Wall Street, Kingston. The Bryson show, highlighted with stunning muted Catskill Mountains and Hudson Valley scenes, opened this past Thursday; will be on view to the public through Feb. 8. The round dozen water-colors in the show make for excellent viewing; would also make a coveted addition to any home. All are for sale at prices that hold appeal for any collector. They range from as low as $60 to no more than $110. A pleasant, pleasing show, it should be included on any itinerary to Uptown Kingston during the coming week.

'Heritage' Talk For Stone Ridge

Maria D. Murray, a talented craftsman in the field of decorative arts, will be the guest lecturer at a special program on Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. in the Stone Ridge Library. The public is invited to the lecture, which will be free and will be titled "Our Heritage in the Decorative Arts."

Miss Murray, who is the author of the book, "The Art of Tray Painting," will show several examples of her art. She will also offer them for sale, with all proceeds going to the Stone Ridge Library.

Born in New York, Miss Murray has travelled widely in the Orient, Greece, Spain and Mexico. For more than three decades, she taught Fine Art and Home Economics in the public schools of New Rochelle, N. Y., and was active in civic organizations there. A graduate of Teachers College, Columbia University, she has written numerous articles on the decorative arts, many of which have been published by the Historical Society of Early American Decoration, of which she is a member.

The horse is better than most 1970 cars.

We are not joking. The run-of-the-mill 1970 car is an affront to progress.

It's too expensive to buy. And too expensive to run. It's almost impossible to park, and maneuvering it through city traffic would try the nerves of a saint.

You'd be better off with a horse.

Which is sure-footed, inexpensive, maneuverable and it eats hay. Nice, cheap, hay.

We, at Renault, are one of the few automakers to make a car that's better than the horse.

The Renault 10.

Since it gets 35 miles to the gallon, it is cheap to run.

And since it has independent suspension and disc brakes, it is sure-footed and easy to stop.

And since it is maneuverable, it is easy to park.

And since it costs $1725, it is easy to buy.

And it is also more comfortable than the horse.

29—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JANUARY 31, 1970

BOB DYLAN

RECORDS

Of Bix and Bunny

By WILLIAM M. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Paul Whiteman was known as the King of Jazz in the late 1920s for reasons only known to the people of that period.

Whiteman was not leading a jazz band in those days even though he had some great jazzmen in his suzerain. What his band was playing was a bridge between jazz and what would become to be known as swing.

Nevertheless, Whiteman had something about his manner that attracted fine musicians. Among them were Bix Beiderbecke, Jack Teagarden, Frankie Trumbauer, Bunny Berigan and the Dorsey brothers.

His First Side

All of them may be heard on "Paul Whiteman, Vol. II" (RCA Victor LPV-570). This album covers a period extending from 1928 through 1935, although there is one cut from 1920, "Wang Wang Blues," featuring Henry Busse on cornet. This is believed to be the first side ever cut by Whiteman.

This selection begins with a fast paced "Dardanella," in which Beiderbecke shows why he is considered an immortal. The young Bing Crosby and the other Rhythm Boys—Harry Barris and Al Rinker—offer the vocals. Rinker's "Mississippi Mud" solo is amusing.

A highlight is the chase between Beiderbecke and Trumbauer on "You Took Advantage of Me."

Mildred Bailey, one of the top song stylists of all time, dresses up "Rockin' Chair" and "Stop the Sun Stop the Moon."

And Berigan is saved for near the last with a stunning trumpet improvisation on "It's Only a Paper Moon."

Influence Still Felt

It's a great experience because these musicians were the pioneers in the development of popular instrumental music, and their influence can be felt in some rock groups today.

Selected Singles—"Give Me Just a Little More Time" by The Chairman of the Board (Invictus Is 9074), "Down in the Boon Docks" by Sone Ridge (Intrepid 75009), "Everything I've got Belongs to You" by The Eclectic Mouse (Capitol P. 2706), "Soraya" by Chris Simmons (Kapp K 2070), "Comin' Home Free" by The Cool Sounds (Pulsar 2421).

Tape Deck — Reel-to-reel: "Moog Power" by Hugo Montenegro (RCA Victor TP3-1020) turns on a fine orchestra leader. Montenegro's talents move in this direction and there are some outstanding sounds, especially on "Aquarius." Eight track: "Firehouse Five Plus Two Goes to a Fire" (contemporary's Good Time Jazz M81052), an Ampex tape release, is an uninhibited romp in Dixieland style. Numbers include "Firehouse Stomp," "Hot Lips," "Flamin' Mamie," and "Keep the Home Fires Burning." Cassette of the Week—"Hank Williams, Jr. Live at Cobo Hall in Detroit" (MGM X54644), an Ampex tape release.

PAUL WHITEMAN

Bob Dylan, who seldom ventured far from his Woodstock home for more than three years, shows every indication of heading back to the concert circuit soon.

Dylan, considered the poet laureate of folk and folk-rock and the major spokesman for a whole generation of young people and pop musicians, lived an almost hermit-like existence in Woodstock, first in a chalet type residence high on a hill in Byrdcliffe; later across the valley on Ohayo Mountain in a rambling mansion with swimming pool surrounded by 150 acres of near-isolation. One of the biggest draws on the concert circuit in the mid-1960s, he dropped out of sight almost entirely at the height of his career following a near-fatal motorcycle accident on a road outside Woodstock.

Now he has closed up his Woodstock home for the winter; moved to a Greenwich Village apartment with his wife and four children. Today the snow on the long driveway and expansive lawn that hides his house from the road is untrampled by the hundreds of fans who made the trip to Mecca in recent years in the hope of catching a glimpse of their idol; instead usually found themselves being escorted off the premises by the local constabulary.

From Greenwich Village, Dylan is expected to begin making public appearances again. Such concert dates have been exceedingly rare since he sought seclusion and privacy in Woodstock. Even so, his life as a recluse in the art colony did little to dim his popularity around the world. His old records continued to sell by the millions, and his reputation as the Prince of Folk remained firmly fixed among the young.

Now, friends are saying, he's ready to step back into the spotlight again. The release of his "John Wesley Harding" and "Nashville Skyline" albums were the first indication that he was resuming his career. They were his first recordings in three years, and they presented a Dylan with a softer style and less grating voice than before. The voice was attributed to the fact that he had given up cigarettes; the style to the introspective life (including church attendance) he had led in Woodstock.

Then, too, Dylan made one of his rare public appearances at the end of August at Britain's Second Isle of Wight Festival of Music, where the top pop idol appeared with "The Band," a celebrated rock group that has also settled in Woodstock. Before the motorcycle accident, The Band had taken a back seat to Dylan as his back up band on a tour abroad. During his convalescence, the group branched out on its own; became famous in its own right with "Music From Big Pink," an album named after the pink house they first lived in in Woodstock, and a recording, along with others, that has made them as famous as Dylan himself.

For the record, as soon as Dylan was announced for the British Festival, ticket sellers were swamped with orders. Prior to his Isle of Wight appearance, the guitarist-singer-songwriter had performed briefly in mid July at the Mississippi River Festival in Missouri. He was a surprise feature. The Band, the only unit featured that evening, played long and hard; drew thunderous applause from the 3,000 people in the audience. But, instead of coming back alone for well deserved encores, The Band brought Dylan with them. He did only three numbers; left the stage with the crowd shouting for more.

Prior to his two appearances last summer, Dylan had not worked in public, with the exception of a guest appearance on Johnny Cash's TV show, since early 1968 when he surfaced for the briefest of stints during a Woody Guthrie memorial concert at Carnegie Hall... and that was his first since the accident almost three years earlier.

A familiar figure in Woodstock in recent years, he is credited with attracting the many rock and folk musicians who have bought or rented homes there. Each of the four members of The Band recently purchased new homes on mountains outside the town, as did famed folksinger Tim Hardin. The Paul Butterfield Blues Band, one of the most acclaimed groups on the scene today, has been home-based in the art colony recently as has folk star Richie Havens and, last summer, Jimi Hendrix, another idol of the young, rented a house in Woodstock. And for every top musician with a million best-selling records to his credit, the hills and hollows of Woodstock boast dozens of others on the way up and hoping to make it big in modern music.

Long a mecca for artists, Woodstock's musical set is now beginning to outnumber the paintbrush and easel residents. (T. G.)

Baetz Abstractions: Universal in Theme

Phoenicia Library has opened its 1970 Art Program with an exhibition of recent paintings by Walter Baetz. The public is invited to view this thought-provoking show during all regular library hours.

Baetz inspired the first Library Art Project show more than eight years ago; has been instrumental in helping other local artists, both professional and amateur, present their work to the community. His own work has been shown on several previous occasions; has never failed to create "sensations" in the true sense of the word. The current show, outstanding for its surer techniques, is no exception.

A collection of abstractions with enigmatic titles, the Baetz paintings and their message are interpreted variously by each viewer. The language is color-in-form, brilliant or muted, raw or subtle, harsh or gentle, sometimes stark, but never pallid. With few words, Baetz has expressed the roots of man's humanity; love, hate, hope, fear, courage, despair—all moving in the foreground of an awesome spiritual force.

Some of the paintings are of this world; others are out of it. "Jump In—Get Wet" portrays a vast, roiling wave—a challenge to the daring, a fearsome encounter for the timid. "A Pendant for an Angel" is a dreamscape in soft hues and textures of a dying sunset; expresses, perhaps, the ageless longing for peace in this world — or the next. "Thing-Being-And-Or" with its towering blue form against radiant yellows creates the feeling of an indestructible, everlasting "presence," dominating even the sun.

This is a show that impresses; one that is significant and outstanding in its themes.

A New(?) Series Makes Its Debut

It's silly slapstick of the most ridiculous brand, right out of McHale's Navy (which never moved us). And, with ample reason, it's going to give small regional airlines the fits.

We mean "The Tim Conway Show," which premiered this week and will be seen on CBS-TV each Friday at 8 p.m. It's totally typical of the low-styled burlesques that pass for a TV series these days. The debut of the new weekly comedy half-hour gave us Conway as the bumbling pilot of a one-airplane airline, and co-star Joe Flynn as the owner and co-pilot who's scared to death of flying.

The situation, of course, gives plenty of opportunity for the silliest kind of buffoonery... and the opener abounded in that. It had the two stars scuffling with a potential hijacker when the door to the cockpit slammed shut, leaving the plane to fly by itself. Not our idea of high flying TV fare at all. (T.G.)

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

The bells were really r-r-ringing Saturday night — telephone "bells," that is — and the chimes were all for "phone company's Jane R. Stenson, Group Chief Operator, Head of Training, who retired after 45 years of "Number, please."

Scores of kin and colleagues filled Gov. Clinton's Crystal Room to capacity, as well-wishers launched Jane on her merry way with Florida as first "long-distance" port of call. Mistress of ceremonies Carol Strini led verbal proceedings with Betty Chavis and Betty Carputo as shindig's chief "operators." They must've rented a barrow to wheel out the awards Jane received: engraved wristwatch; a charm with diamond; purse (with handsome check to go in); and an exceptionally clever scrapbook of magazine pictures with appropriate sayings — geared to guest of honor — which truly must have been a labor of love by author.

Rita Horvers sang one of Jane's favorite songs, "Impossible Dream," (and everyone knew why that one was selected.) The whole Stenson family was there: brothers Tom and William; "middle" brother, politician Joe who played spokesman and told a few tales that Jane probably "crowned" him for afterwards; Robert and Francis. Jane must have had to play her cards with finesse years ago living as Queen in a "full house" with five male jokers.

Strains of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," raised the Crystal Room roof and the chorus of company gals who belted out those "Glory, Glory Alleluias" — original, lyrics by Jane's niece Karen and illustrated with company props — almost tempted hotel-help to Dial M for Manager "collect," at that.

Busy signals flashed as mini and maxi guests gabbed away: Rod and Mary Booth; Rita Roach; Mary Gotelli; Mrs. and Mrs. Woody Rodden; Bill and Kay Gaffken; Kathy Miller; Flo Bogovich; Betty Heitzman, who's next in line for retirement and will have time galore to bake gingerbread men for which she and Jane are so renowned.

Chatting person-to-person, one realized no lines got crossed at that party. In giving tribute to Jane R. Stenson, those telephone operators certainly had the "right number."

Seen in the "thirst parlor" of the hotel were Metropolitan Insurance Company's George Devine with son George who sells radio space for WGNV in Newburgh; Tom Gallagher who'll boast 11 years with Carr Funeral Home on Ash Wednesday (ashes to ashes, dust to dust...) Tom's son John plays bass in band at hotel with Kingston's friendly drummer Cab Morello. Duke Locke, potential understudy for Burl Ives, is letting goatee grow and claims he'll NEVER cut it again. One of our favorite Irish bartenders, Larry Gahan, was serving a bit of the brogue with all his drinks at no extra charge and any cocktail served that way just automatically tastes better. (Ah, how sweet it is!)

Hal Schultz, Associate Sponsor, Dale Carnegie courses, conducted Graduate Assistant screening at Plaza Branch of State of New York National Bank Friday night. Class 13 is due to start and Hal's lookin' for assistants from last year's alumni. A natural is Ashton Myers who's a walking Carnegie success story. He quit his job while attending Class 12, took a position with State of N.Y. National Bank and before one could spell d-i-p-l-o-m-a, was manager of bank's Plaza Branch. As for filling up new Class 13, hear tell each time an ad runs with Hal's picture, there's a deluge of calls... all women, naturally.

Those Wonderful Days At Dragon Preparatory

Kukla, Fran and Ollie are coming back to television!

Burr Tillstrom, their creator, celebrates the 23rd year of Kukla, Fran and Ollie when he brings the durable trio — along with all the other Kuklapolitans — back to television for the first of five new half-hour color specials on NET, Thursday, February 5 at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 17.

Tillstrom, creator of the famous trio and winner of Peabody and Emmy awards, is perhaps America's master puppeteer. It was in 1936 during his work with the WPA-Chicago Parks District Theatre that the bulbous-nosed Kukla was born and three years later Kukla was joined by Ollie, an aspiring young dragon-turned-entertainer from Dragon Retreat, Vermont.

In 1947 two events occurred that helped catapult Kukla and Ollie to a place among the world's best-known puppets. They began a regular TV show that year at Chicago station WBKB, and at the same time were joined by a charming young singer-comedienne. And so with the addition of Fran Allison, Kukla, Fran and Ollie was complete. The fame of the show grew rapidly and in 1949 Kukla, Fran and Ollie went coast-to-coast over the NBC network. They remained on network television until 1957.

In this first of five programs, Ollie endeavors to get big-name performers such as the Beatles and the Supremes to appear on the show, and is shocked to discover they insist upon being paid. Fletcher Rabbit prevents Fran from eating one of his garden tomatoes, which he calls "David," and Ollie reminisces about his days at Dragon Prep.

They Attracted January Viewers

AS A PHOTOGRAPHER, Saugertiesian Bernard Nathan excels at "Head Hunting," more aptly known as people portraiture. But his unusual, January-long photography exhibit at Kingston Savings Bank's Bonanza branch on Route 9-W sometimes concentrated on "things" as well as faces. Response to Nathan's first one-man exhibit at the bank was overwhelmingly favorable. If you missed it, watch for the next one, and you'll find yourself agreeing that even a camera study of a wallside light switch makes for arresting photography when Nathan is behind the lens.

POSTERS BY THE ROOMFUL have been attracting crowds to Ulster County Community College's Visual Arts Gallery since early January. Herewith, two examples: one promoting a ceramics exhibit, the other an abstract art show. The popular poster show, with works by such famed artist-designers as Ben Shahn, Leonard Baskin, Alexander Calder, Jasper Johns and Robert Motherwell, moves off-stage at the Stone Ridge campus after Feb. 6. See the placards before they go and you'll see advertising at its most colorful.

and comical in the title role, and gets excellent support from the recognizable characters in the cast.

Downhill Racer

Robert Redford stars in this brilliant study of the genesis of a ski champion, and the film itself is as crisp and tightly packed as the ski slopes.

Now showing at Catskill's Community Theatre, it presents Redford as a natural born skier from Colorado and one of an American skiing team competing in Europe and building up to the big moment in the Olympics. A taciturn individualist, Redford doesn't quite fit in with the Ivy Leaguers on the team; clashes from the outset with coach Gene Hackman, a strong personality himself.

There's an affair with a Swiss beauty (Camilla Sparv); a summer visit to see his laconic father on the Colorado farm; and lots of flying with the wind on the ski slopes. All in all, a superbly acted movie with remarkable photography of some of the world's best skiing. The film paints an honest picture of the hard work and selfless determination needed in true competition. It stands among the best high gear films of recent years.

Oh! What a Lovely War

With caricature and fantasy, tragedy and savage comedy, this brilliant British musical comedy, played by a most distinguished cast, gives a symbolic account of World War I. The cast is a veritable Who's Who of British filmdom (John Mills, Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir John Gielgud) and the movie—now at New Paltz Cinema—shifts back and forth from the fighting front to the carnival atmosphere of Brighton. Moving in and out of the honky tonk of a seaside resort, the film is an indictment of the utter futility and horror of war.

Outstanding in the lead female roles are Maggie Smith as a music hall star who lures the boys to patriotism, and Vanessa Redgrave as a pacifist. Highly imaginative sets, spirited dance sequences, and nostalgic World War I songs all blend to mock war without resort to visual brutality or bloody violence. The message is clear in the young boys who enlist, caught up in a hoopla of bands, songs and persuasive recruiters that leads to the trenches and the cemetery.

Other Choices

PUTNEY SWOPE. This blackest black comedy of all time is now showing at three area theatres: Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema, Hyde Park's Roosevelt, and the Rosendale Theatre. Daringly innovative, often hilariously and brilliantly satirical, it focuses on a black advertising executive who accidentally falls heir to a lily-white agency and proceeds to rock the boat of The Establishment.

ON HER MAJESTY'S SECRET SERVICE. Now playing at the Lyceum in Red Hook is this latest James Bond adventure story. And it's the best and most spectacular of all the 007 series; has a new Bond (rugged George Lazenby) teaming up with tough but beautiful Diana Rigg, known to her fans as Emma Peel of "The Avengers." (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

ROBERT REDFORD is true to the schuss in "Downhill Racer," the superb film about skiing now showing at Catskill's Community Theatre.
